Jefferson 'flagged' for coronavirus spike

County reports Wednesday that 48 more individuals have contracted COVID-19

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

One week after slipping from a "Blue" advisory into the "Yellow," Jefferson County on Wednesday saw its number of positive COVID-19 cases increase by 48 over a day earlier.

One week ago, Jefferson County had moved to a "Yellow" advisory — which indicates a moderate community spread — after spending several weeks under a "Blue" advisory indicating low community spread. Now the county has been "flagged" due to a large number of cases "attributable to congregate settings."

Overall, the county has had 3,180 positive cases of COVID-19 and 80 deaths during the pandemic. Jefferson County's seven-day positivity percentage is currently at 8.3% and the unique positivity rating is 19.5%.

Meanwhile, the Indiana Department of Health reported on Wednesday that

Hanover OKs $59K to repave park trails

BY BOB DEMAREE

With activities and usage on the rise, Hanover Community Park is becoming a busy place and Hanover Town Council wants the park to safely accommodate all that is going on.

On Tuesday night, the Council voted to spend $59,215 for Sedam Contracting to repave all the walking trails at Hanover Community Park including an additional trail that has not previously been paved.

The need for work on the trails throughout the park is due to a renewed emphasis on Hanover Parks that is creating a resurgence of activity. Clerk-Treasurer Keith Mefford said the trails have "not been paved or capped for years" and the resurfacing is "long overdue."

Mefford said for safety reasons the repaving needs to be done soon, particularly with the increased activity at the park. "We are three weeks away from boatloads of kids being here" for the summer parks programs, he said.

Mefford said two other companies expressed interest in the contract, but Sedam Contracting is the only company that responded. "Sedam is a local contractor that will do a good job, and time is of the essence," Mefford said.

The trail paths, now 6-feet-wide, will be expanded to 8 feet. With the equipment pavers use, Mefford said it is actually more cost effective to pave eight feet than six. Additionally, Mefford said the 8-foot width works better for use by park equipment.

Park committee member Rick Schnebelt said trail should bring the park into better compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, and that could position them better to receive future grant funding for the park.

Funds for the project will come out of Hanover's unappropriated general fund.

In other business, the Council:

• Approved spending $2,541.85 with Gold Medal Concessions from the unappropriated general fund to update equipment at the park concession stand, which hasn't been used

50TH ANNIVERSARY

Attic reaches milestone with a new family in its future

BY BOB DEMAREE

When R.B. and Irene List opened their business at 631 West Main Street in downtown Madison, they decided to call it the Attic "because you don't know what you will find in the attic, and they were selling a little bit of everything," said Julie Truax, the current operator of the business along with Chip George and Brent Warren.

The Attic, now in its fourth generation of family operation, Tuesday celebrated the 50th anniversary of its opening on April 20, 1971. The milestone also signaled a transition for

CHARLIE ROHLFING
CHARLIE'S BEAT

The third annual Madistock Music Fest will be taking place on the sidewalk in front of the Buy-Sell-Trade store on Main Street, directly across from Greves Appliance. Due to the forecast for bad weather, the date has been moved from Saturday, April 24 to Saturday, May 1.

"This is something we do really just to contribute to the musical fabric of Madison," says Shawn Coghill, owner of Buy-Sell-Trade. "We started small back in 2019, and then COVID kind of messed up 2020. This is our third event, but in some ways it's our first time as an all-out effort with lots more musicians and better organized.

"This year we have Robert Reynolds, a Grammy-winning artist for those who don't know, accompanied by local guitar ace Daryl Hewitt. We also have Jimmy Davis lined up, plus the Famous Amy Noel, The Jackson Bladen Band, Johnny & Sallie, Hannah Rose, Pocket Full of Change, The Old & Familiar, and Jake Taylor and BSP Nation.

"The format is classic busking, with the performers out on the sidewalk in front of the store. Each performance will be about one hour. We'll have a few tables set up, and we encourage people to just come by, hang out, tip the artists, and enjoy the energy.

"Busking is kind of a cultural artform unto itself, and it's very prevalent in larger cities like New York, New Orleans, and London. There's a connection between the performer and the audience you can only get when both are on the same level, standing on the same sidewalk a few feet apart."

"We want to bring that same energy to Madison," interjects Dashawn Kelley, store manager. "In addition to Robert

Golf cart amendment advances at city council

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison City Council on Tuesday held the second reading of an amendment to the city's golf cart ordinance but not without first approving two amendments to that proposal and engaging in a lengthy discussion on how to make cart operation safer for small children.

The code amendment, proposed last month by Councilman Curtis Chatham, would allow golf carts registered in the city access to most city streets as well as travel to and from downtown to the hilltop. The agreement would also provide reciprocation for carts registered in Jefferson County by allowing them the same access in the city as carts registered with Madison.

Noting the growing popularity of golf cart usage, their benefits to business and tourism and a lack of serious accidents involving carts on city streets since Madison first adopted its original ordinance in 2009, the only objections posed for expanding that access was related to the safety of children—especially toddlers and infants — being allowed as passengers on golf carts.

Chatham asked for and received two changes to his amendment Tuesday night — one that will not require county residents to have separate city permits for access to city streets and the other to remove requirements that golf carts have approved safety seats for children riding as passengers.

Chatham said the permit change granted reciprocity to the county and that he anticipates the county to take similar action in the near future to make city permits acceptable in the county. Removing safety requirements was an issue because golf carts aren't manufactured with safety belts or child seats so determining what would be an approved safety device could prove difficult.

Golf carts are designated as low speed vehicles — their top speed is not supposed to exceed 19 mph — so they are not required to include seat belts or be set up for child seats. However, the city ordinance does state that carts cannot be occupied by more riders than the approved number of seats and the driver and passengers must be seated and inside the vehicle at all times.

The ordinance also specifies that cart operator's must be a licensed driver, follow all rules and regulations, comply with all state and city traffic laws and yield to faster traffic.

Madison Police Chief John Wallace said the popularity of golf carts in the city amazes him — there were 315 permits issued so far this year — but that in the 11 years since the city adopted the cart ordinances there have been only two injury accidents and seven or eight drunk driving arrests related to cart operation.

The council agreed to send the amendment to a third reading at its next meeting and perhaps refer the child safety issue to the city's Traffic Committee for study over the next few months.

for several years. "We need equipment to get it started again," said Mefford, who said once the concession stand becomes operational, it should pay for the equipment and operations.

• Agreed to pay $5,000 out the of water/sewer fund to Northside Security for security cameras that have been installed at Fireman's Park. Mefford said the town was able to use money from that fund because water/sewer items are stored in the building there.

• Received a request from Susie Lawrence, 911 executive director, to increase Hanover's contribution to Jefferson County 911. Lawrence requested that Hanover increase its contribution from $23,500 to $36,000.

Board members took the request under advisement and asked Lawrence for a copy of the 911 budget to help them better understand expenses and what the money is going toward. They agreed to consider the request during budget discussions later this year.

• Approved seeking bids on city-owned property at 132 Maple Street and 138 Ohio Avenue with a starting bid of $9,500.

• In a park board meeting that preceded council, parks director Scott Davidson said opening day for the summer baseball and softball youth leagues is May 22 with more than 200 signed up for 10 softball teams and 11 baseball teams. There are three new scoreboards in place at a cost of $18,000 paid by four sponsors. All three fields are being worked into shape including one field Davidson said hasn't been used for several years. "We plan to use all three during the season," he said.

Reynolds and the other pro musicians, we have a bunch of younger artists who are just starting out and need to be included in the scene."

"Robert Reynolds has kind of a special relationship with Buy-Sell-Trade," explains Shawn. "He came in here several years ago when he first moved to Madison, and we discovered we had a lot of the same interests in music and especially vintage rock memorabilia.

"Robert at one time hosted a show on CMT called Raiders of Rock, which was a kind of American Pickers for old music stuff. Buy-Sell-Trade has a lot of old gear like that, and in fact the guitar amp Robert is using right now he found right here.

"If this is successful and the musicians are into it, this is something we hope to do twice a year, like Spring and Fall. We're going to have food from Mad Dog Hot Dogs, and ice cream from Sallie's By The Shore. Hopefully we'll have good weather, and I encourage everybody to stroll on by and enjoy some great, live, local music."

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK

Just look at the music calendar! Thirteen live music shows for the week! Three shows in a row at Red Bicycle Hall. That almost never happens. The House Band is back at Mad Paddle, with even more eclectic and awesome songs from the classic rock era. And even Richwood Plantation across the river in Milton, Kentucky, is getting in on the excitement. If you are in the mood to get out on Thursday night you might want to check out Alex Meixner at The Bike. He is a Grammy-nominated musician and performer, and a huge promoter of polka music, in all its many high-energy forms. This kind of show doesn't come to Madison often, if ever. I know I'll be there! It starts at 7 p.m. so you won't be out too late on a school night.

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

ATTIC

the Attic as Truax and George, grandchildren of the Lists, and great grandchild Warren, are selling the business to a new family, Megan and Brandon Hicks and Megan's parents, Norm and RoseMarie Roberts, all of Madison.

Truax said family members are selling the business because they feel it's time for them to move on.

"We aren't selling the business because we have to. I am ready to retire," she said, noting that George and Warren both have other interests to pursue and she just wants some time to enjoy retirement. "With mom, when she was done, I was done."

Four months after the Lists opened the business in 1971, their daughter Judy George and her husband, Phil, moved from Texas to Madison in August and took over the business. Previously a housewife, Judy George quickly became the face of the Attic, working long hours and greeting every customer and person who came into the store.

"When my parents moved to Madison, my mother didn't work and she hadn't had any training in running a business. A lot of things she had to learn life lessons right in the store," Truax said, noting her parents still developed a successful business.

Judy George continued to operate the business after Phil died on Feb. 21, 2010, and was actively involved right up to her death at age 85 on Sept. 7, 2020. "Even though she was not physically able to do as much the last couple of years, she was still very involved," Truax noted.

Truax operated the business alongside her mother for many of the 50 years, a connection that went beyond that of mother and daughter.

"She and I could communicate without talking with each other," said Truax, noting they just had a way of working together and knowing what needed to be done.

Prior to becoming the Attic in 1971, the two-story 1860 structure had been a grocery for many years. Thomas P. Vincent and his wife, Lottie, opened Vincent's Grocery in 1925, and stayed in business for the next 45 years. Before that the structure served as Miller's Grocery for several years.

The building has retained many of its historic features with cast iron that was added in 1901, and original store fixtures and shelves remain. Before the Lists purchased the building, there were four apartments in the building and when Phil and Judy George came to Madison, they moved into the upstairs.

"This whole building was home," said Truax. "We lived and worked in the same building."

One of the downstairs areas that had also been an apartment was repurposed, most recently as a kitchen.

Although the building saw little change, the business evolved over the years. In the early years, they sold unique gifts and crafts, and offered picture framing and collectible prints. At various times, a room back behind the two front rooms has been used in various ways. For awhile, it had art and craft supplies with classes sometimes held there. Another time, it became a candle room and for a time it had Christmas items year-round.

With the expansion of Madison's tourism industry, the room then became extra space for dining customers when the Coffee Mill Cafe was added in 1993 and the store began selling food and coffee made from beans roasted on site.

Truax said the business needed to evolve. "That's the sort of thing we had to do to keep going," she said. "When my grandparents bought this building in 1971, tourism was not part of what was going on in Madison. They opened to support the community."

However, as tourism eventually became a greater focus, the Attic began to shift while still maintaining elements from its early years.

"We have always carried gourmet foods," Truax said, noting that Cherchies Champagne Mustard has been on the Attic shelves for decades, and they're still selling it. "My Dad bought it somewhere and loved it, and we started carrying it in the store."

Truax most of all is appreciative of how the community has supported the Attic over the last 50 years — especially through the passing of her mother and months of dealing with a virus pandemic.

"In the past year, we have realized how much this community supports us. We're a little 'Mom and Pop" store, but with COVID, we could not have made it without the community support," she said noting that even when they couldn't have dine-in customers, the community continued to support the business with curbside pickup, special orders and deliveries.

Truax is happy that the new ownership will keep the Attic going and echoed a remark made by her brother, Chip, that "they are just the perfect family to take on the Attic."

The Hicks and Roberts are local residents who are familiar with the community and the Attic. The new owners will take over on May 27 when the Attic will be closed for a few days and then reopen on June 1.

"I am really excited. I have loved the Attic for a long time," Megan Hicks said.

She said her plans for the future are for the shop to continue to be the place that the community has loved the last 50 years.

A memorial service will be held at St. Andrew By-The-Sea United Methodist Church on April 27 at 2:00 PM. Burial will be at Fairmont Cemetery in Madison, Indiana with the date for a graveside service announced at a later time.

He spearheaded a county wide tax levy to fund the construction and operation of new facilities in 1974 and a building was named and dedicated in his honor in 1979.

Roger married his great love, Marian (Kissel) Jackson, on October 19, 1996. They built a beautiful home in Hilton Head at the Long Cove Club where they enjoyed more than twenty years of golf and other community activities. Aggressive base-running leads Rebels over Ripley

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

It was fitting that Southwestern was wearing jerseys honoring Jackie Robinson. The way the Rebels attacked the bases Monday would have made the former Brooklyn Dodger and Civil Rights activist proud.

Southwestern stole five bases, beat out three infield singles and forced the action on every play — to go with a huge pitching performance from Jordan DeAtley — to knock off South Ripley 6-4 in a key early-season battle between the two best teams in the Ohio River Valley Conference Monday in Hanover.

The Rebels' aggressive style led directly to five of their six runs. They also had two runners thrown out by South Ripley catcher Cody Samples and another picked off of second base, but that was all baked into the formula as far as Southwestern coach Dan Thurston was concerned.

"I told the guys before the season that I was going to get them thrown out — probably two or three times a game," Thurston said with a smile. "But that's how we're going to play. We're going to be aggressive every chance we can."

Southwestern's first run didn't come on the basepaths but instead was a leadoff home run by Zach Cole on the second pitch he saw to give the Rebels an early 1-0 lead.

Southwestern outfielder Foster Mefford closes in on a fly ball during the Rebels' win over South Ripley on Monday.

But every other run the Rebels scored was manufactured and with each run South Ripley grew more and more flustered.

Foster Mefford opened the third by beating out an infield single, stealing second, going to third on a groundout and then scoring when Jamison Lewis' safety squeeze bunt was misplayed by the Raiders.

Southwestern added a third run in the fourth when Ethan Stewart reached on an error, stole second and scored on Brady McLain's bloop single for a 3-1 lead.

No play epitomized Southwestern's hustle more than Mefford's score in the sixth. After Stewart opened the frame by getting hit and going to second on an errant pick-off throw, Mefford laced an RBI single to center. Mefford then stole second and when the throw from Samples went into the outfield, Mefford never hesitated by taking third and heading home to beat the throw to the plate.

"He's the only one that could score on that play," Thurston said. "His hit to knock in that run was the biggest hit of the game I think."

Cole followed Mefford's heroics with a double and then scored on the Raiders' third error of the game for a 6-1 lead.

DeAtley (3-1) made the lead stick. The sophomore had his best game as a high schooler, striking out 14 and allowing five hits while walking five to go the distance. DeAtley held the Raiders in check until the seventh when Samples bombed a three-run home run to close the gap to two and Ripley got the tying runs on base, but Thurston allowed his hurler to close out the game.

"By far it's the best game I've seen him throw. He's just so composed and doesn't get too

Mefford steals home to lift Carroll softball against Eminence, 5-4

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Bailey Mefford's steal of home in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted Carroll County to a 5-4 win over Eminence in softball Tuesday in Carrollton.

The Panthers entered the frame trailing 4-3 after allowing two runs in the top half. Bailey Stewart and Mefford each reached on one-out errors and Courtney Strickland drove in Stewart with a single to center.

Mefford had gone to third on the throw and then came home with the winning run as part of a double-steal involving Strickland.

Along with her game-winning steal, Mefford also had a home run — her first — and drove in two runs for the Panthers. Stewart had two hits, an RBI and two runs, and Kamryn Knight, Layne Huesman and Claire Harris each had hits.

Mallory Noble (3-2) picked up the win after allowing four unearned runs on five hits in seven innings with seven strikeouts.

That offense was more than enough for starter Immi Mann (4-7) who picked up the win after allowing just one earned run on four hits in five innings with six strikeouts.

Madison, now 5-8 on the season, hosted Floyd Central on Wednesday and hosts Southwestern in the annual cancer awareness game on Friday.

Sparks (7-0), the reigning MaxPreps North Region Player of the Week, was touched for one unearned run on four hits in seven innings but the junior still struck out 12 without walking a batter.

Switzerland's offense scratched out three runs on five hits to secure the win. Maddie Duvall had a triple, an RBI and a run scored, Jessie Duvall had a double, an RBI and a run scored, Sparks and Madesyn Byrd each had doubles, and Hailey Sainz had a hit.

Switzerland, now 7-0 on the season, hosts Owen County on Friday and hosts Southwestern on Monday.

TRIMBLE ROLLS OVER PORTLAND

Emma Ginn and Rachael Liter each hit home runs to power the Raiders. Liter was 2-for-2 with five RBIs and a run scored while Ginn was 2-for-3 with two RBIs and three runs.

Shelby Wilcoxson was 2-for-3 with a double, two RBIs and a run, Kaylee Payton was 2-for-3 with a double and two runs, McKenna Ritchie had a hit and an RBI, and Emma Horn drove in two runs.

Ritchie (6-2) worked just two scoreless innings to pick up the win. She struck out two and allowed a hit.

Trimble, now 6-3 on the season, hosts Eminence today then heads to Owensboro on Saturday for the 16-team All "A" Classic State Finals.

Trimble will be in the same pool with Whitefield Academy, Villa Madonna and Middlesboro with game action beginning at 8 a.m. The winners of the four pools will then meet in a four-team tournament on Sunday to decide the champion.

MGW's Level 9 team state runner-up

Athletes score six top-three finishes

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Four Level 9 athletes from Madison Gymnastics World recently competed in the Indiana State Meet at Noblesville with the team placing second in the state while scoring six top-three finishes in the four individual events.

Going up against much deeper squads with many more scores to draw from — the top three individual scores are used to calculate team scores — MGW scored enough quality finishes to be the state runner-up. Considering that only three of the four MGW girls — Mia Cantu, Esphyr Koren and Alexa Yeomans — competed in all four events and specialist Emily Turner, who focused on the beam and floor, was competing for the first time in almost two years due to injuries, the showing was perhaps even more impressive.

"So proud of this team ... Alexa, Emily, Esphyr and Mia all contributed to our runner-up finish," said Coach Stephanie Kemp. "This was Emily's first competition in almost two years and without her we would have finished fourth! This is a true definition of a team. Each of these girls have battled hard all year to get to this place. They beat teams two times their size and continue to prove that hard work pays off and they have not peaked yet!"

The four MGW gymnastics competed in the Level 9, Senior A competition at the Finch Creek Fieldhouse in Noblesville late last month.

Cantu finished second in the floor with a 9.575, tied for second in the vault with a 9.625, 11th in the beam at 8.850 and 13th in the bars at 8.950. Her all around score ranked fifth at 37.000.

Koren tied for second in the beam with a 9.400 and third in the bars with a 9.475. She also placed tied for 11th in the vault at 9.325 and 18th in the floor with an 8.700. She was sixth in the all around at 36.900.

Yeomans placed third overall in the beam with a 9.450 and fifth in the bars at 9.400. She tied for seventh in the vault at 9.400 and tied for 14th in the floor at 8.625. Her overall score of 36.875 placed seventh in the all around.

Turner was third in the floor with a 9.425 and 14th in the beam with an 8.475.

The same four MGW athletes then competed against gymnasts from Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan and Ohio at the 2021 USA Gymnastics Region 5 championships last weekend at Duke Energy Center in Cincinnati with Cantu and Yeoman placing second and third, respectively, in the all around and the team combining for four top three finishes in the various events.

Competing in the Level 9, Junior 7 Division, Cantu was second in the vault with a personal best 9.800 and third in the beam at 9.425. She also placed fifth in the bars at 9.450 and seventh in the floor with an 8.900 for an overall second place all around at 37.575.

Yeomans, also in Level 9, Junior 7, was third in the bars at 9.5003 and tied for fourth in the vault and floor with a 9.375 and 9.450, respectively. She tied for fifth in the beam at 9.175 and third all around at 37.500.

Koren's top finish was a tie for third in the floor at 9.525. She also tied for seventh in the vault at 9.175 and eighth in the bars at 9.125 to go with an 11th in the beam at 9.225. Competing in the Level 9, Junior 1 Division, Koren's all around score tied for seventh at 37.050.

Turner was sixth in the floor with a 9.400 score in the Level 9, Senior 5 Division.

Three of the girls — Cantu, Yoeman and Koren — have qualified for next month's USAG Gymnastics Level 9 Eastern Nationals.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has a number of dogs and cats and kittens available for adoption.

Koda, a collie mix, came into the shelter with Haus, a beagle mix. They are both very happy three to five year olds who are a little over weight, so they have been put on a diet.

Koda loves to run and be outside while Haus loves to play with toys and be the center of attention. Both are getting neutered and vaccinated on the April 20 and will be ready to adopt on the April 21.

Two other dogs will be having surgery and vaccinations on the April 20, so visit sisaveapet.com to see which dogs and cats are ready to be adopted.

The shelter remains open by appointment only due to the COVID pandemic. Appointment days and times are Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 1 p.m. To schedule an appointment please email the shelter at animal.shelter39@jeffersoncounty.in.gov or call 812-273-1788.

Adoption fees have also changed with dogs set at $100 and cats $80.

Those with missing pets can call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

Husband is COVID-shaming

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have friends and family who have traveled for vacations during the COVID-19 pandemic. My husband and I have taken trips during the pandemic, too, but only road trips, and we stay at Airbnb rentals (by ourselves). Some of my relatives, meanwhile, went to Hawaii, justifying it as helping Hawaii's economy. Some have flown upwards of five times during the pandemic. Many even traveled during the holidays and got together with people outside their household for multiple days.

These friends and relatives are not anti-maskers. They proudly tout all the extra safety precautions they take when traveling, and they get tested beforehand. But my husband is sickened by their behavior, and he's begun opting out of our weekly family Zoom calls. He says he's lost all respect for them.

He's saddened by this situation and isn't enjoying himself. He feels very alone in his quest to do the right thing, surrounded by those who prioritize themselves over the safety of greater society.

I'm disappointed in their actions, too — but not enough to cut them out of my life.

When we've pressed these relatives about why they feel the need to travel and take unnecessary risks, they say that our vacations have been just as risky; flying is safe (this is a big one); it's their prerogative; and they're not endangering anyone. They feel as though my husband is harshly judging and shaming them. And to be honest, he is.

I'm trying to support all parties involved. I'll never force my husband to be friends with people whom he doesn't respect — but at the same time, I'm grieving the loss of the unity between everyone. Thankfully, we live far away from these friends and relatives, and they're not really part of our regular daily lives. But the family members are people I like to see two or three times a year — and I'd like to visit them with a happy husband! Do I have to give up that fantasy? — Dealing with the Fallout

Dear Dealing: Remind your husband that there are folks who have been even more careful than you have, people who have barely set foot outside their yard, let alone left their town. They might consider your road trips reckless. My point is COVID-shame not, lest ye be COVID-shamed.

Still, it's not surprising that many of us have been so quick to judge during a year that has been so turbulent. Judging others gives us a sense of control. Hopefully, as the pandemic recedes and life eventually returns to normal, your husband will let go of these resentments. In the meantime, continue to talk with these friends and family as you normally would, paying no mind to his crankiness.

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now! Annie Lane's debut book — featuring favorite columns on love, friendship, family and etiquette — is available as a paperback and e-book. Visit http://www.creatorspublishing.com for more information. Girls' trip

DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I'm thrilled to finally be planning trips with friends again, now that we're all vaccinated and things are opening back up. Two of my best friends — let's call them "Molly" and "Bella" — and I rented a vacation house about two and a half hours away, planning to do a long girls' weekend. We've lined up appointments at a spa together, picked out board games to play and everything. The three of us haven't been great about talking on the phone and over Zoom during quarantine, so I've been looking forward to catching up and seeing how they're doing.

But now, "Molly" is talking about inviting two other friends of hers. Bella and I have only met these other two women a handful of times. They seem fine, but I was really looking forward to hanging out just the three of us. I've had some personal things going on in my life that I was hoping to open up to them about, but I'd feel weird talking about that stuff with acquaintances. And to be honest, after a year of being on my own most of the time, the idea of being around four other people for a few days straight sounds overwhelming. How do I tell her I'd prefer for it to just be us three on the trip, since we haven't seen each other in so long? — Five's a Crowd

Dear FAC: Just like that. There's no need to make it complicated or personal. Explain to her what you told me: You'd like to keep it to just the three of you for this trip since you have a lot to catch up on. A best friend would never hold that against you.

Dear Annie: I'm in the process of grieving my husband, who died unexpectedly from a heart attack recently.

We met at 17 and never left each other's arms; I fell madly in love with him at first sight.

We had 40 years together, a blissful beautiful marriage.

Now that he is gone my heart aches for him. I'm barely coping. I often have panic attacks and just feel very fearful all the time. My husband was my rock, my protector, my everything. My life seems worthless without him.

My two sons, ages 12 and 14, constantly ask me am I OK, and I say yes so they don't worry. But honestly, I'm drowning in sorrow.

Do you have any suggestions for online grief counseling? — Totally Broken

Dear Broken: There are no words for me to properly express how sorry I am for your loss.

PsychologyToday.com has a comprehensive database of therapists. On the homepage, click "Find a therapist"; then enter your ZIP code and hit enter. You'll be shown a list of therapists in your area. Click the "Issues" filter just above the results, and select "Grief." Look for therapists who have "Offers online therapy" listed beneath their contact information.

Another online resource I'd recommend is the website Refuge in Grief, which is run by a grief counselor who also lost her husband suddenly. Start at this page: refugeingrief.com/life-gone-sideways.
